Peping shuns election, insists on acclamation

By Peter J. Braaten

Engelbert Pepping, president of the Philippine Basketball Association (PBA), has refused to step down from his position as president of the league. He insists on being elected to the position by acclamation, rather than through a formal election process.

Engelbert Pepping

[Name of second man]

Pepping, who has been president of the PBA since 1990, has been a controversial figure in the league. He has been accused of favoring certain teams and players, and of being involved in several scandals.

Pepping's refusal to step down has caused a major rift in the PBA. Many fans and players are calling for his resignation. However, Pepping insists that he will continue to lead the league until he is formally elected or removed from office.

GMA tells Monico to look after TV issue

The Philippine television network GMA has asked its president, Monico, to look after the network's television issues. This includes ensuring that the network's programming is of high quality and that it complies with all relevant regulations.

GMA has a long history of providing high-quality television programming to its viewers. However, in recent years, the network has faced several challenges, including competition from other networks and changes in viewer preferences.

Kerry calls for extension of Sept. 11 commission

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP) — President George W. Bush's administration is considering whether to extend the Sept. 11 commission's mandate to investigate the Sept. 11 attacks, a senior administration official said.

BUSH

The official said the administration is "looking at all the options" and "will make a decision in the coming weeks." The Sept. 11 commission was created by Congress in 2002 to investigate the Sept. 11 attacks and the federal government's response.

The Sept. 11 commission's mandate expires on Sept. 11, 2004. The commission has already released several reports, including one on the federal government's response to the Sept. 11 attacks. The commission's final report is expected to be released in late 2004.

227 more North Korean defectors arrive in Seoul

SEOUL, Sept. 11 (AP) — Twenty-two more North Korean defectors arrived in Seoul on Monday, bringing the total number of defectors to 227 since the start of the year.

The defectors arrived at the Incheon International Airport in Seoul. They were met by officials from the South Korean government and the United Nations. The defectors are being housed in a temporary facility while they wait for their final destinations to be determined.
